

TWENTY-EIGHTH CONGRESS,

FIRST SESSION.

FRIDAY, JUNE 14, 1844.

SENATE.

A message was received from the President, conveying certain correspondence between our late Minister to Mexico and the Mexican Minister of Foreign Affairs.

Messrs. WOODBURY and McDUFFIE presented memorials for the "immediate" annexation of Texas. Mr. McD. hoped he might be indulged for a short time this morning in replying to some of the remarks of the Senator from Missouri yesterday; and for this purpose, he desired that the bill for the annexation of Texas might be taken up.

It was understood that Mr. McD. would be heard after the morning business was disposed of.

Mr. BRESEE presented a memorial from some individual in Illinois, who claims to have made important discoveries in physical science, by which accurate calculations can be made for any future time of the wind and weather. Mr. B. regretted that the session was so near its end, and seemed to give credence to the statement, which was verified, he said, by very high testimony.

Mr. WRIGHT presented four memorials from Albany in favor of making the bill concerning the election of President and Vice President applicable to the next election.

The Civil and Diplomatic Bill was taken up and passed.

Several House bills were ordered to be engrossed.

Mr. WALKER'S "Red Lion" resolutions were called up by him, and by a vote of 21 to 20, they were laid on the table.

On motion of Mr. ATHERTON, and by a vote of 24 to 22, the bill to fix a uniform day for the election of President and Vice President was taken up.

Mr. BERRIEN explained, simply, the cause of the amendment, postponing the effect of the bill until after the next election—that it would subject some of the States to the expense and trouble of extra sessions of their Legislatures.

Mr. ALLEN fulminated in favor of the immediate passage of the bill without the amendment.

A discussion of some length followed, in which it was clearly shown that most of the States would be obliged to summon their Legislatures if the bill passed without the amendment.

The yeas and nays were finally called, on a motion of Mr. BARROW, to lay the bill on the table, and this was done, by 26 to 25.

At this point Mr. McDUFFIE wished to be heard, but, with the understanding that he would be allowed the privilege of addressing the Senate to-morrow morning, gave way to

Mr. EVANS, who called up the Naval Pension bill, which was passed.

The Navy Appropriation bill was next taken up, and numerous amendments were made by Mr. BAYARD, and concurred in.

Among these were amendments to strike out the two sections of the bill, one of which abolishes the spirit ration, and the other prohibits the infliction of corporal punishment in the naval service.

Mr. BAYARD explained that by an existing provision the sailor who did not wish to draw his allowance of grog could be allowed to commute for it.

The yeas and nays were called on the amendment concerning the spirit ration, and the same was agreed to by a vote of 24 to 16.

That concerning corporal punishment was agreed to without a division.

Numerous other amendments were made, and when the hour of recess came round, the Senate were engaged in considering one to allow Lieut. Wilkes, of the exploring expedition, extra pay for his services.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Senate met again at 4 o'clock, and considered and passed the bill from the House to pay for horses lost in the Florida war by Missouri volunteers.

The Navy Appropriation bill was passed. The supplementary Naval Bill was also taken up and passed.

A motion to postpone the previous orders, and take up the question of reconsidering the vote by which the Senate rejected the bill to remit duties on certain railroad iron, was lost, yeas 22, nays 22.

The Senate then passed into Executive session.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

There was some difficulty, this morning, in settling the order of business; it was finally agreed to call the different committees for reports.

Mr. VANCE, from the Committee on Claims, reported several private bills from the Senate.

Mr. DUNLAP, from the Committee on Commerce, reported a bill for extending Morse's Telegraph to New York.

Mr. GRINNELL, from the Post Office Committee, reported a joint resolution, which was passed, authorizing the Postmaster General to make the necessary arrangements for the transmission of the British mail from Boston.

The Senate bill for settling the title to the Pea Patch Island, was taken up. The bill makes R. B. Taney the arbitrator in the case.

Mr. ADAMS submitted, whether this House and the other had the power to refer a case to the arbitration of the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, when the Constitution gives that Court jurisdiction over the case.

The bill, after a brief discussion, was referred to the Committee of the Whole.

A large number of private bills were passed. The Civil and Diplomatic bill came back from the Senate, and was referred to the Committee of Ways and Means.

A BOOK AUCTION.

Mr. WINTHROP submitted a resolution which severely shocked the nerves of some of the scrupulous members, and threw the House into spasms. The resolution proposed that the members of the present Congress should be allowed the same books as were allowed to those of the 26th and 27th Congresses, provided that it should not be necessary to reprint them.

Some twenty voices, making the uproar of an hundred, shouted their opposition to the resolution.

Mr. WINTHROP moved a suspension of the rules.

Objections as loud as before succeeded, and the yeas and nays were vociferously called for. The real opponents of the resolution, however, did not equal one-third of those present. The previous question was moved and seconded, amidst hideous outcries. The main question was ordered, without the yeas and nays, and the yeas and nays were likewise refused on the adoption of the resolution.

Messrs. DROMGOOLE and CAVE JOHN-SON were furious in their opposition, and the latter contrived to procure an order for the yeas and nays by a close squeeze.

Mr. CARROLL wished to inquire if it was in order for old members of the House to receive books, and then vote against giving them to new members. [Laughter, uproar, and cries of order.] Some of the old members rose here, but were put down amidst loud cries of order.

The House refused to lay the resolution on the table by a vote of 111 to 71.

The question recurred on its adoption, which was done at once.

Mr. WINTHROP, to make assurance sure, moved a reconsideration, which was refused by 105 to 67.

The Speaker's table was then cleared of Executive communications, and several Senate bills were ordered to a third reading.

A bill was passed respecting the Northern boundary of Missouri.

The bill for the settlement of private land claims in Louisiana, Arkansas, and Missouri, was taken up, and

Mr. VINTON took the floor in an argument in opposition to it, upon which he was still engaged when the hour of recess arrived.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

When the House reassembled at 4 o'clock, there were few members present. A motion to adjourn was made, upon which the yeas and nays were called, merely to give absentees time to collect. The yeas were 4, and the nays 129.

Mr. ADAMS submitted a resolution calling on the President for any correspondence with Mr. Irvin, formerly Minister to Spain, since 1814, which had not been communicated to Congress. No objection was made, and the resolution was adopted.

The consideration of the bill for settling old land claims in Louisiana, Arkansas, Missouri, and other States, was resumed.

Messrs. WHITE and VINTON addressed the House, the former in favor and the latter in opposition to the bill, and then the previous question was moved.

A motion to lay the bill on the table was rejected—yeas 81, nays 85.

The vote was then taken on the passage of the bill, and its closeness was such as to excite interest. The bill was passed by 86 to 84.

The House was engaged in considering the Naval Appropriation bill, with the Senate amendments, when our paper went to press.

SARSAPARILLA.—This celebrated root, so famous as a medicine for the cure of diseases of the blood, rheumatism, &c., has of late acquired additional reputation by an important discovery made in its preparation by the well known house of A. B. Sands of the city of New York, who have invented an apparatus for the purpose of thoroughly extracting the virtues of the plant. The inventors say of this machine, in connexion with the preparation they produce by it, that the whole discovery is the result of years devoted to laborious chemical experiments in testing various modes of preparation, enabling them to concentrate in the most efficient form all the medicinal value of the true Sarsaparilla; and they have at last accomplished this most desirable result by means of an entirely new, ingenious, and costly apparatus. The process throughout is governed by strictly chemical laws, so that the essential virtues of the Sarsaparilla depends, is entirely preserved. This is then combined with other articles, selected wholly from the vegetable kingdom, all of which are the most powerful purifiers of the blood, which are then concentrated into a fluid extract that has been found by experience to possess the important power of immediately arresting the progress of disease, and restoring the patient to health.
